FORMATION OF TAZEWELL COUNTY

Tazewell County was former from parts of Peoria County by the Illinois State Legislator on January 31st, 1827. Originally proposed to be named Mackinaw County, prominent Pekin businessman Gideon Rupert lobbied the legislator to have the new county named Tazewell County in honor of Virginia Governor Littleton Tazewell. Tazewell County as established in 1827 included all of current day Woodford County, over half of McLean County and Mason County, and smaller parts of Livingston County, Dewitt County, and Logan County.

Here in Hopedale on April 10th, 1827, the first meeting of the new Tazewell County Government took place at the home of William Orendorff. The first County Board Members were James Lotta, Benjamin Briggs, and George Hittle. The only business at this first meeting was the appointment of Mordecai Mobley to be the first County Clerk.

The next meeting of Tazewell County Government would take place on April 25th, 1827, at the homestead of Ephraim Stout in Stout's Grove during which time the office of Tazewell County Sheriff (William H. Hodge), Tazewell County Coroner (Thomas Orendorff), and Tazewell County Treasurer (John Benson) was established.

Finally, during the third Tazewell County Government Meeting on April 26th, 1827, also in Stout's Grove, Sheriff William H. Hodge and County Clerk Mordecai Mobley were ordered to survey and sell lots for the new Town of Mackinaw by the second Monday of June 1827, which would serve as the County-Seat.

FIRST TAZEVELL COUNTY COURTHOUSE

During the third Tazewell County Government Meeting on April 26th, 1827, at the homestead of Ephraim Stout in Stout's Grove, Sheriff William H. Hodge and County Clerk Mordecai Mobley were ordered to survey and sell lots for the new Town of Mackinaw by the second Monday of June 1827, which would serve as the County-Seat. The first Tazewell County Government Meeting here in Mackinaw took place on June 11th 1827.

During the Tazewell County Government Meeting on June 26th, 1827, the County Commissioners outlined the construction of the new Tazewell County Courthouse. The building would be one and half story, 18 feet by 22 feet, with black walnut doors and trim. Amasa Stout was the lowest bidder for construction of the new Courthouse, at a price of $125. The new Courthouse was located at lot 1 of block 11, just to the northeast of this location at the current day southwest corner of the intersection of North White Street and East Franklin Street.

Judge Samuel Lockwood of Jacksonville held the first court here on the 12th day of May, 1828. The Courthouse remained in Mackinaw until June 1st 1831, when the County-Seat was moved to Pekin, Illinois. The time in Pekin was short-lived, as the County-Seat was moved again in 1836, this time to the Village of Tremont, before moving back to Pekin in 1850.

THIRD TAZEVELL COUNTY COURTHOUSE

This County Courthouse you are looking at is the fourth such building in Tazewell County. The immediate predecessor of this grand building stood on this same ground.

Mackinaw had the first County Courthouse from 1827 to March of 1831. Then the County-Seat was moved to Pekin for the first time between 1831-1836, however no County Buildings were constructed. Tremont built the second Tazewell County Courthouse and moved the County-Seat there in June of 1836.

Pekin was disappointed in losing the County-Seat and several initiatives was taken to regain this status. The Illinois Legislator intervened and on February 2nd 1849 an election was held to determine if Tremont or Pekin would be the County-Seat. One condition the State Legislator placed on the election was if Pekin was chosen, then the citizens of the City of Pekin would have to donate land for "Courthouse Square" and pay for the construction of a new Courthouse. The City of Pekin won the election and immediately stated plans for what would be the third Tazewell County Courthouse. The last meeting at the Courthouse in Tremont was August 26th, 1850.

The third Courthouse was of Greek-Revival style with six white marble columns two stories high supporting an impressive portico. The building was composed of sandstone quarried 5 miles northeast of Pekin and bricks fired on the East Bluff in Pekin. The cost for this building was $8,000.

Of the many attorneys and judges to serve within the third Courthouse, a few stand above the rest; future United States President Abraham Lincoln, future United States Supreme Court Justice David Davis, and then United States Senator Stephen A. Douglas. The Third Tazewell County Courthouse would remain till 1914, when it was demolished to make room for the current Fourth Tazewell County Courthouse.
